Dear Mr. Melson,

Recently I have accepted a new assignment with the LDS Church. There is currently a search in process for a new commissioner of LDS Family Services. In the interim, Larry Crenshaw has been assigned as the acting commissioner.

After much consideration, we have determined that it would be best to postpone our anticipated meeting on August 11, 2008. We feel badly about this but believe that for this to be the best experience for all parties involved and to ensure appropriate consistency and continuity of the process, it would be best to postpone the meeting until the new commissioner is named. We anticipate the new commissioner to be named in the near future.

We appreciate your understanding of this situation and hope that the temporary postponement of the meeting does not cause you, your coworkers, or organization any undue hardship. We look forward to meeting with you in the future. The new LDS Family Services commissioner will contact you to introduce himself and request a meeting as soon as possible.

Sincerely,
